The tombola was a success, although some might have had a bit of a surprise. It was well after midnight when we left the club house, content with the fondue and a very friendly evening.

TB

A big "Hello" from all of us down here! We have been busy with our walks and a few other activities. At the end of August we climbed the hills behind Makara, to the great delight of our small children, as they were all looking forward to see the relics of the bunkers which were built in the 2nd World War. And they were not disappointed. Sadly we had to leave the summit fairly abruptly, as a storm and heavy winds were brewing above our heads - they helped us to sail swiftly back to the beach where a warmer climate prevailed. Later, we enjoyed a "Jass" in the clubhouse.

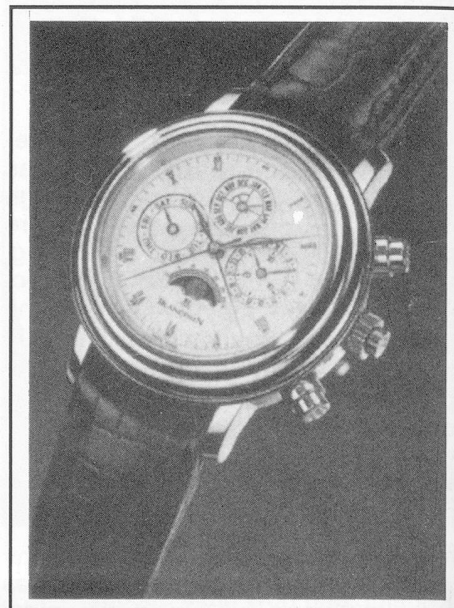

On the 10th September the Garibaldi Club and the Circolo Italiano of Wellington were the hosts for two Ticino writers, Elda Guidinetti and Antonio Rossi. It was an interesting and challenging night. Antonio spoke in a very soft Italian about the immigration and emigration from and to the Tessin. Elda spoke in English about women and family issues. Many questions were capably answered. We thank the Swiss and Italian Embassies for inviting Elda and Antonio to several New Zealand and Australian cities. The sharing of literature and culture is always enriching for the giver and receiver.

A warm sunny September Sunday encouraged us to walk up Wrights Hill in Korori. It was as usual the last Sunday of the month. The highlight of the trip was the hospitality of the Schneider-Köppel family who spoilt us with wonderful cakes and coffee. Why don't you join us on our next trip?

Nadine Studer, Franz Schneider and Michele Köppel-Schneider enjoying the "Wienerlis" on the summit!

THE WORLD'S MOST COMPLICATED WATCH

The Swiss firm Blancpain has been awarded six stars by the German magazine "Chronos" for its watch called "1735", which has established a world record for complication watches. The 1735 includes all of the six classic complications: ultra-thin movement, calendar with phases of the moon, perpetual calendar, split-second chronograph, tourbillon and minute repeater. The creation of this jewel, a veritable symphony of time, involves two months just to manufacture the parts, and a full year for the assembly by a master watchmaker. The cost of such an instrument, which is being produced in a limited edition with a maximum of 30 watches, is around NZ$900,000 each.
