Upcoming Swiss Cultural Events in New Zealand

(As indicated by the Swiss Embassy - Wellington)

The Swiss Embassy in co-operation with 'Pro Helvetia-Arts Council of Switzerland' is pleased to announce the Photographic Exhibition of 'The Patient Planet/So Many Worlds' for 1999.

Christchurch	Canterbury Museum	5 May - 7 June 1999
Palmerston North	Manawatu Art Gallery	19 June - 1 August 1999
Wellington	Dowse Art Gallery (Lower Hutt)	21 August - 21 November 1999
Auckland	Auckland Art Gallery	11 Dec. 1999 - 23 Jan. 2000

The Patient Planet/So Many Worlds is a remarkable exhibition of photographs which tells the story of the major political and human events of the second half of the twentieth century. Turbulent, yet touching, the 255 images tell individual stories with formidable authenticity, a factor which is frequently overlooked in today's art-directed or manipulated images. Nearly all the renowned names of humanistic photojournalism are represented including Switzerland's Werner Bischof, together with Henri Cartier-Bresson, René Burri, Robert Frank and many others. This is an important exhibition, brought to New Zealand by Pro Helvetia, Arts Council of Switzerland, and should be of great interest to every age group - it is a photographic history of the world that is our's.

Swiss federal office says no to genetically modified maize and potatoes.

Genetically modified plants may not be grown in Switzerland. The federal office for the environment has rejected two requests to plant genetically-modified maize and potatoes.

The office said too little was known about the consequences of the modified plants for both humans and the environment. The requests came from a private company and from the federal agricultural research centre.

Switzerland lifts embargo on Libya

In line with the United Nations, Switzerland has officially suspended sanctions against Libya, imposed after the 1988 Lockerbie bombing. It mainly affects air links between the two countries, and assets in Swiss banks.

The economics ministry said the embargo, which was introduced in 1994, would be temporarily lifted, pending further decisions by the U-N security council. The move came after Libya handed over two suspects to an international court.

70,000 people challenge planned maternity insurance scheme

Opponents of the planned maternity insurance scheme have forced a vote on the issue. A group sponsored by the People's Party and employers organisations handed in seventy thousand signatures to the federal authorities. They said there was no need for the legal amendment, approved by parliament, and that funding was too costly. The issue will come to a nationwide vote in June.

Greens vye for seat in cabinet

The Green Party says it wants a post in the government. The party president said it was time to reconsider the political composition of the cabinet.

He said it was time to discuss the issue of whether the People's Party should keep its seat in the cabinet, once the defence minister, Adolf Ogi, decides to step down.

The Greens hope to win at least fourteen seats in October's general election, that's three more than they hold now.

Addressing a conference of French-speaking nations held in Monaco, Mr Couchepin said Switzerland supported the idea of cancelling all debts as part of development aid.
