SAMICLAUS: On Sunday 3rd December Samiclaus came to the farm. While the weather did not seem promising in the morning, by lunchtime it had cleared and many families shared a beautiful day. Lunch was for sale and bratwurst, cervelat, wienerli with bread, followed by strawberry tartlets, were greatly enjoyed.

Santa swooped in by helicopter just before 2 o'clock and all present, adults and children alike, enjoyed the special feeling his arrival brings. A lolly scramble added to the excitement and over 60 children waited patiently to speak with him and to receive their rewards. It was a very enjoyable day.

THANKS: I would like to take this opportunity to warmly thank all the sponsors who have made donations for this and other events; please keep it up!

Thankyou also to those committee members, members of the farm committee and others who give their time throughout the year with deeds both big and small. I am looking forward to another productive year in 2001.

Past Events...

The Club's Christmas function was held on 10th December, and we were blessed with a very warm and summery day. The great day brought lot of people out to join us for this occasion.

Many families came along ready to use the pool, so it wasn't long before most of the children, and some adults, were in the water swimming and splashing around. Others enjoyed tennis, volley ball or snooker, or were just happy chatting with friends and relaxing.

Barbecue Bratwurst and cold drinks were served for lunch, and later raffle tickets were sold. Congratulations to the lucky winners, and also many thanks to those who donated the lovely prizes.

The children later enjoyed meeting Santa and receiving their gifts, followed by ice blocks to cool down, while the adults were treated to a variety of home made Swiss Christmas biscuits with their coffees. A very nice day was enjoyed by all.

Mari Ettie Camenzind

Ettie Camenzind was born on 6th January 1916, in Kaponga, Taranaki - the third eldest child in a family of seven.

Ettie's parents immigrated from Switzerland in the early 1900's, and Ettie learned to speak the Swiss dialect fluently.

At the age of 14, Ettie left school and worked in the Tea Rooms at Te Awamutu. A few years later she met Charlie Camenzind, who had also immigrated from Switzerland. While teaching Charlie English, a courtship developed, and Ettie and Charlie were married on Boxing Day, 1940, and settled in Hamilton.

Later, to be closer to Ettie's parents (Anton and Eliza Steiner, farming at Lichfield), the couple moved to Putaruru, where Charlie set up his own business as a painting contractor.

Charlie and Ettie raised a family of five children - Charlie, Walter, Louis, Gerardine and Annette (died aged two). Shortly before Charlie passed away in October, 1979, Ettie was able to fulfil a life long dream to visit her parent's homeland - to see the places where they were born and so often spoke about, and to visit relatives and Charlie's home town.

Following Charlie's death, Ettie moved to Mount Maunganui. Her interests included painting flowers and landscapes and, until Alzheimers set in, she was an avid letter writer, keeping in touch with relatives in Switzerland.

Ettie spent the last 18 months at Assisi home at Matangi, Hamilton. She was strong in her faith, loved visiting relations and friends, and loved her music, having played the violin in her younger days. She was a great cook of traditional Swiss recipes. Ettie had a quiet and gentle nature and would never get upset or angry at anyone. She was a kind and caring lady.

Ettie passed away peacefully on 26th November, 2000. May she rest in peace.

New Year's Eve

As over previous years, the "campervanners" once again joined us to see out the Year 2000. There were 28 campervans parked at the Swiss Club, and many Swiss made up the merry bunch.

Happy hour(s) was held and then we all got together for tea in the 'storage shed'. Unfortunately Charlie and Doreen couldn't find us and ate tea alone... sorry about that - we'll make some more noise next time !!

After tea, everyone got dolled up, and a full range of evening's entertainment followed - from musical skits... to the lonely, sad lad who went to Aussie for two weeks and returned with a seven month pregnant girlfriend... to the Hawaiian ensemble... to the handsome sailor winking at the lovely ladies... and then to the musical talents of Leo... yes, we really had it all !!!

As well, several games were played, with almost everyone participating. The few remaining seated watched the proceedings with great anticipation - what an evening !!!

Many thanks to Zehnders and Benkerts for all your efforts with entertainment... it was truly appreciated by everyone there.

Come midnight, with the delicious supper only a memory, we all toasted the New Year. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves !!

The next day, the campervanners had morning tea and were joined by Charlie - he couldn't resist the temptation of a coffee schnapps !!

Many of us went to the Stratford Club for dinner on New Year's Day, which was an excellent way to end the festivities. One of our members also got hooked on the pokies... and even won some money. Well done, Mark, a cheap dinner for you. Perhaps you could give Josie some lessons !!

Forthcoming Events...

Annual Picnic

On 11th February, our annual picnic is here again ! Schwingen is a highlight, and we want some more participants, so please give your names to Paul

Children's activities are being organised, so come on, kids, tempt your parents to come along.

Delicious Cervelats and Bratwurst, to suit everyone's taste buds, will be available, along with ice creams, ice blocks and drinks.

As well, there'll be a great tombola, so don't forget your wallets !! Now all we have to do is hope for a beautiful, sunny day!! We look forward to a great turnout.

1st March - AGM of the Taranaki Swiss Club, to be held at 8.00pm.

(Please note this date on your calendars now, as the next Helvetia issue may not arrive before the AGM date to remind you of the meeting.)

18th March

- Championship / Society Shoot, commencing at 1.00pm.

Please give Mark your support. New members are needed, so please come along and give it a go !!

KEGELN : Remember that Kegeln recommences in February, on the first and third Thursdays.

Here, too, the support of new participants would be most welcome.

3rd December - Samichlaus

A big thank you to Saint Nicholas, who found time to come to our clubhouse on Sunday afternoon !

He found the right tone to speak to the more than twenty children, some shy and overwhelmed, some a bit cheeky. Quite a few children had gone to the trouble of learning a poem or a song, and recorders, the violin, guitar and piano were played - there seems to be some serious talents around ! Oscar Roggen welcomed and farewelled Saint Nicholas on his alphorn - most appropriate for a Swiss Saint Nicholas. Every child received a typical Samichlaus bag and even a little Lebkuchen and a Grättibänz - except for our youngest member, 12-week old Ryan David Cox; we'll make up to him next time !

- Parents and children relaxed with coffee and a delicious choice of cakes and biscuits and other pre-Christmas specialities.

- A big thank you also to Theres Scherrer for a brand new, really festive and proper Saint Nicholas coat !

10th December: Christmas Carols in the Botanic Garden

16th December: Christmas Party

Our Christmas Party started early, at 6.30 pm, with Sangria; plenty of time to have a little chat with new and old friends.

In the meantime the kitchen crew was busy, looking after the hams - Roland Schütz and Heinz Jäggi did a great job. And so did the others who had prepared a great variety of salads: Our guests numbering more than sixty enjoyed the buffet. Then our patron, Rosina Fuhrer, read a Christmas passage from the Bible, followed by Christmas Carols.

- We enjoyed the strawberries, and a cup of coffee with a biscuit, and the evening finished around eleven; no complaints have come to our notice. Some members got an early Christmas present (or a rather belated 1st-August present): The Swiss Society medals found their owners, in a nice presentation by the Glauser family.

Basel architects receive prestigious award

Herzog & de Meuron, the Basel architects who designed the Tate Modern in London, have won a prestigious Swiss award for their artistic contribution to cultural life.

Worth SFr25,000, the Max Petitpierre Prize has been awarded every two years since 1984 to Swiss achievers in the fields of science, politics and the arts. Previous recipients include the astronaut Claude Nicollier, the sculptor Jean Tinguely and the conductor Armin Jordan. Jaques Herzog and Pierre de Meuron, both of them born in Basel in 1950, founded their architectural practice in 1978 after completing their studies at the Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich. Since then they have been involved in design projects throughout Europe and the United States, and received international awards for their work by arts organisations in Germany and Italy. Their most high profile commission was the transformation of the former Bankside Power Station, next to the Thames in London, into Britain's national museum of modern art, the Tate Modern. Since it opened last year, the Tate Modern has attracted huge numbers of visitors who go there not only to see its contents but also the building which houses them.

Switzerland implicated in huge money laundering scandal

An Italian company has allegedly laundered around SFr800 million worth of dirty money through Swiss banks and financial institutions. So far, (18.1.2001) the Italian police have arrested ten people and premises in Switzerland have been searched. Financial institutions in Zurich, Geneva and Lugano are believed to have been involved in the money laundering before the end of 1999. The affair involves an entrepreneur from Naples who ran an import-export company, Italgrani, dealing in cereals.

«Ski free» im Toggenburg

"Ski free" is the password used by Swiss people on the Internet, to obtain a free 6-day ski pass (on all lifts and related amenities, during the month of March), if at the same time an 8-day hotel booking is made. - The free ski-pass is only available under <www.MySwitzerland.com>

Resurgent watchmakers in need of new blood

Twenty years ago, the Swiss watch-making industry was in the doldrums. Now it is booming and faces a new problem: finding enough skilled staff to meet demand.

Swiss design in the limelight in Cologne

A museum in the German city of Cologne is celebrating Swiss design with a special exhibition showing classics such as the Swiss army knife, Swatch watches and the Toblerone chocolate bar.

Weapons containing depleted uranium tested in Switzerland

The Swiss defence ministry has confirmed that ammunition containing depleted uranium was tested in Switzerland during the 1970s. What happened to the spent shells, however, remains unclear.

Switzerland placed fourth in globalisation poll

Switzerland is the fourth most "globalised" country in the world, according to the American magazine, Foreign Policy, which has carried out what it says is the first-ever survey on the issue of globalisation.
