Unique Hotels

Against all boring Hotels

Where to stay along the railways on your Tour de Suisse? www.uniqhotels.com has the answer if you look for a selection of stunning, completely unusual and exciting hotels!

WHITEPOD - Future Igloos

Location: Les Cernier

Brand new for winter 2012/13 these futuristic eco pods are nestled in the Alps creating a little igloo village. Your pod is made out of insulating fibre and has a wood-burner for comfort. There is an en-suite bathroom and super luxurious bedding. Whitepod is part of the eco-tourism movement and aims to be carbon neutral. Each pod is placed on a wooden platform with stilts driven into the ground so there is very little permanent structure involved and the slopes remain in pristine condition. At the centre of the pod village there is a traditional 19th Century wooden chalet for eating and socializing after a hard day on the slope. Whitepod is more than just their domes eco-village. It is a resort and because it aims to be low impact, their location is far away from the tourist throng and concrete spoilers of the mainstream lodges. They offer 7km of ski slopes with private ski lift and other snow activities such as cross-country skiing and husky-driving.

THE PROPOSAL ZUERICH

Location: Zürich

There's unique hotels and then there's 'The Proposal'... I really want to stay here. I mean, who wouldn't want to spend the night in a house that is stuffed with a huge inflatable 'fatman'? Staying here hits a spot somewhere between amusement and confusion. When you stay at The Proposal you can choose the upstairs bedroom or sleep in a converted van in the front drive - now if that's not unique I don't know what is. After the 'fatman' project, further art installations have appeared at the venue including a piece that filled the house with packing slates. As well as hosting the current art work the hotel features proposals for new projects on which guests can have their say, because, as a guest of the hotel, you automatically join the club where you can help decide what the next installation will be. The hotel is currently looking for a new venue.

THE NEW MONTE ROSA HUT

Location: On the mountain near Zermatt

This hut is owned by the Swiss Alpine Authority and was designed by professors and students of architecture and eco-design from Lucerne University and ETH Zurich (Swiss Federal Institute of Technology). The crystal-shaped building is designed to make sunlight spirals inside while redistributing thermal body heat from occupants to heat the lodge naturally. It combines a wooden interior with an aluminium and glass shell to reveal amazing views of the Gorner Glacier. Excess energy is stored in valve-regulated lead-acid accumulators, which will provide power in darkness. The water is produced from melting glaciers then collected and stored in a large reservoir 40 metres above the hut. Eventually it will be used as a research station and an example of how energy and resources can be used with maximum efficiency. So, unfortunately you cannot stay there. But I am sure we can both salute the people designing unusual buildings in unique harmony with their environment.

MOROSANI FIFTYONE -

Future hotel designs. Location: Davos

Fiftyone is an automatic hotel which means there is no concierge, no receptionist and definitely no yoga teachers. You book your room online and check-in using a computer which ejects an electric keycard. The hotel only provides you with a room which has an LCD TV, high-speed internet and bathroom mirrors with televisions inlaid. The interior blends traditional Alpine wood with modern industrial design. The hotel owner operates another lodging nearby in case the machines become sentient and decide to kidnap you in your room... but don't worry that will probably never happen. There is a breakfast bar opposite the hotel and a room full of vending machines selling coffee, crispbread and fruit to keep you satisfied during your stay. If you want to treat yourself to the spa experience it is available at a sister hotel nearby. Fiftyone is fully serviced and there is even a turndown service available from the friendly android, Phil5000... not really it's actually a human chambermaid.

IGLU DORF

Locations: Davos - Klosters, Engelberg, Zermatt, Gstaad, Stockhorn, Zugspitze

Built from 3000 tonnes of snow in different locations around Switzerland, Germany and Andorra, the igloo hotels feature top-notch ice artistry and a variety of rooms all made from glistening ice and snow. There are family and romantic options. The romantic rooms come with ice-carved tables, champagne and mood lighting. The rooms are equipped with specialist sleeping bags so you remain warm. You can relax in a sauna (in Gstaad and in Davos-Klosters) and open-air whirlpool at 2620m above sea level and admire ice carvings created by international artists. The hotel was created by snowboarder Adrian Gunter who used to build himself little igloos to sleep in so he didn't have to travel back and forth from the best snowboarding slopes. The shelters worked so well, he began building more and eventually opened them as a hotel. To create the igloos a huge inflatable balloon is blown up and covered with snow, the snow freezes and the balloon is removed creating a solid structure around which the outing of the hotel is made and snow and ice-carvers decorate the interior.

You have a private balcony where you can enjoy breakfast watching the sunlight startle the water of the great lake. In ski-season you can enjoy the Alpine piste and any number of mountainside activities available all year round. There are boats and kayaks to play with on the lake and a rich cultural history to explore in the towns and villages.
