Forum “Notes” from the IADA Board

I. Membership

It's not too late! If you've missed the April 1 deadline, you can still send in your membership renewal. Remember that there are two parts to renewing your membership. First, it is essential that you send your membership dues of 30 (20 for students) to:

Prof. Dr. Edda Weigand - Sonderkonto
 Postbank Dortmund, BLZ 440 100 46
 ac. n.: 32519-469
 IBAN: DE 89 4401 0046 0032 5194 69, BIC: PBNKDEFF

Second, you must complete the membership form to guarantee that we have your correct contact information (e-mail, university affiliation, and mailing address) and that you receive all the mailings you are entitled to as a member. You can download the form at: <http://www.neiu.edu/~iada2004/member.doc> or <http://www.neiu.edu/~iada2004/member.pdf> and send it via e-mail attachment to: iada2004@neiu.edu. Be sure to write “Membership” in the subject line.

N.B. Unfortunately, only those individuals whose membership is current (i.e., have paid the membership fee) will be eligible for reduced fees for IADA conferences.

II. Calls and Conference Notices

Don't forget to confirm your participation in upcoming IADA and IADA-related events. The next event, IADA 2006, is being held at the University of Mainz. “Dialogue in and between Different Cultures” will take place from September 26 through September 28 in Mainz, Germany. The deadline for submissions is August 1, so please get your abstracts together and send them in to Dr. Marion Grein at grein@uni-mainz.de. Formatting instructions can be obtained at the conference website: <http://www.e-linguistik.uni-mainz.de/iada/>.

In addition, an IADA-related conference, “Dialogue Under Occupation”, will be held in Chicago, USA at Northeastern Illinois University. Plenary speakers include Ruth Wodak, Rakesh Bhatt, Claire Kramsch, Robert Phillipson, and Tove Skutnabb-Kangas. Registration is now available online and can be accessed via the conference website at: <http://www.neiu.edu/~duo>.

The next IADA Congress (The 11th International Conference on Dialogue Analysis) is scheduled for March 26-30, 2007 in Münster, Germany. The call for papers is already available for “Dialogue Analysis and Rhetoric” at <http://www.uni-muenster.de/Ling/iada/DA11/index.htm> (see also below). The deadline for submissions is October 15, 2006 and individual papers as well as panels are welcomed. For additional information, please contact Edda Weigand at DA11@uni-muenster.de.

Projected future events:

- 2008: Word meaning in Dialogue, Catholic University, Milan
- 2009: Dialogue Analysis XII, University of Barcelona

Let us know if you would be interested in organizing future IADA events. Contact the Board Secretary at iada2004@neiu.edu.

III. Publications

Recent IADA publications in the Beiträge zur Dialogforschung series with Max Niemeyer Verlag include selected papers from the IADA conferences in Utrecht (2002) and Salzburg (2003). In addition, selected papers from Lyon (2004) and Chicago (2004) are anticipated out in Spring 2007. Check on the IADA website (<http://www.uni-muenster.de/Ling/iada/>) or Max Niemeyer Verlag (<http://www.niemeyer.de>). Additionally, the proceedings of the Bucharest conference (2005) will be published by Bucharest University Press.

Moreover, we would like to draw your attention to the new series on 'Dialogue Studies' with John Benjamins Publishers (see Call for Proposals below).

Have you ever thought about sharing your recent achievements with IADA? We would like to take the opportunity to publicize references in the IADA newsletter indicating the many contributions of our members to the field. Send us any notices about your recent publications (within the past year) so that we can share them as resources with other members, scholars and students of dialogue analysis and related fields.

IV. Reviews

Have you read any good dialogue books lately? IADA presents an opportunity for you to get published in our newsletters or online by submitting reviews of books on dialogue analysis. Book reviews should be short—no more than a couple of pages—and summarize the main points of the text. Send any submissions to Dr. Ernest W. B. Hess-Lüttich at hess@germ.unibe.ch for consideration.

Dialogue Analysis and Rhetoric – Call for Papers

11th International Conference on Dialogue Analysis

University of Münster

March 26-30, 2007

Convener: Edda Weigand

IADA - www.uni-muenster.de/Ling/iada/DA11

Over the past two decades interest in rhetoric has become more and more central in dialogue studies. The basic questions concerning the nature of dialogue and of rhetoric have been addressed from new perspectives. Are they to be dealt with separately by focusing on a distinction between rhetorical and non-rhetorical texts, or is rhetoric an intrinsic part of dialogue analysis? How do we most effectively pursue our goals in communication? How can we optimize performance? As the object itself – effective dialogic interaction - is a complex object, addressing rhetoric in dialogue cuts across disciplinary boundaries of linguistics, philosophy, media and communication sciences. It is dealt with in rule-governed models of communicative competence as well as in models of ever-changing performance. Recently a research tendency can be observed which aims to bring both strands together, competence and performance, in describing human beings' ability of competence-in-performance. In this sense, the conference is open to the various approaches in Dialogue Analysis and Rhetoric but will have a specific focus on approaches that aim at addressing the mixed game of effective dialogic interaction. Questions of culture and institutions are included.

Plenary papers will be given by: Adelino Cattani (Padova), Kenneth N. Cissna (Tampa/South Florida), François Cooren (Montreal), Robert T. Craig (Boulder/Colorado), Werner Kallmeyer (Mannheim), Frans van Eemeren (Amsterdam), Edda Weigand (Münster)

Conference languages are English, German, French.

Possible session topics:

- Advances in the complex of competence-in-performance
- Theoretical approaches of communicative competence
- Empirical approaches of performance
- Rhetoric of rationality and reason, Rhetoric of persuasion, Rhetoric of power
- Rhetoric and culture, Rhetoric and politeness, Rhetoric and emotions
- Rhetoric in institutions, Legal argumentation, Media strategies, Political rhetoric, Rhetoric in business
- Other topics of dialogue analysis

Forms of presentation:

- Plenaries (45 minutes speaking time, 15 minutes discussion)
- Session papers (20 minutes speaking time, 10 minutes discussion)
- Panels (2 hours, 4 papers on a common topic)

Abstracts and registration

- Abstracts should be sent by October, 15, acceptance is communicated by December, 15.
- Registration by October, 15.

Publication: A selection from the proceedings will be published.

NEW BOOK SERIES
Dialogue Studies
edited by Edda Weigand
Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster

John Benjamins Publishing Company is launching a new book series on Dialogue Studies. The series takes the notion of dialogicity as central; it starts from the classical view of 'language as dialogically directed' and encompasses every type of language use, workaday, institutional and literary.

By covering the whole range of language use, the growing field of dialogue studies comes close to pragmatics and studies in discourse or conversation. The concept of dialogicity, however, provides a clear methodological profile and allows us to structure the pragmatic 'perspective' and the 'pan-discipline' of discourse. It focuses on methodological premises such as: action and reaction; the integration of the human abilities of speaking, thinking and perceiving; dialogic interaction as the intentional effort to pursue definable goals and interests.

The series aims to cross disciplinary boundaries and considers a genuinely interdisciplinary approach necessary for addressing the complex phenomenon of dialogic language use. All disciplines that deal with the human ability of dialogic interaction from different perspectives, in everyday interaction as well as in institutional contexts, are addressed: linguistics, philosophy, psychology, sociology, rhetoric, anthropology, applied linguistics, culture sciences, the media sciences, economics, jurisprudence.

The current state of research in science in general is characterized by a turning point from closed rule-governed models to open models of probability. In this sense, Dialogue Studies aims to support new ways of theorizing and opens up innovative crossdisciplinary advances in the complex. The series will be of interest to existing theoretical approaches to competence as well as empirical approaches to performance, bridging the gap between competence and performance by focusing on human beings and their competence-in-performance.

This peer reviewed series will include monographs, thematic collections of articles, and introductory textbooks in the relevant areas. The first volumes are expected to be published in 2007.

Book proposals are invited. They should follow the guidelines specified on the John Benjamins Publishing Company website, and be sent to the editor:
