A new chairlift reaching right into the heart of the Alps has been inaugurated at Champex, the well-known resort in the Canton of Valais. In 20 minutes the chairlift takes passengers to a height of more than 7,200 ft. to the mouth of the great Trient Glacier, near to the 8,800 ft. Orny Hut and the Mont-Blanc Massif. From Martigny (on the international Simplon line) Champex, 4,920 ft. above the sea, is easily reached as far as Orsières by train and postal coach beyond.

Intense heat in the Alps burst two water pockets in the Ferpècle glacier, at the foot of the Dent Blanche. The mass of water shooting out from the glacier carried blocks of ice, trees, and rocks headlong down the valley for 18 miles, causing much damage on the banks of the Borgne torrent as far as the junction with the river Rhone, the level of which was raised 2ft. Part of the hamlet of Les Haudères was invaded by a stream of mud and a garage was destroyed. Under the village of Evolène the flood swept away a bridge and sawmill.
