Federal

On Wednesday, September 19th, the Austrian Federal Chancellor, Herr Dr. Julius Raab, arrived at Buchs on a four days official visit to the Confederation.

On entering Swiss territory he was welcomed by the "Vice-Landammann" of the canton of St. Gall, Mr. Clavadetscher. After a short stay at the Werdenberg castle, the Chancellor left by car for Zurich. On his arrival there he was visited at the Grand Hotel Dolder by Dr. Vaterlaus, President of the cantonal Government, and by Dr. Landolt, Mayor of the town of Zurich.

The next day (Thursday) the distinguished visitor continued his journey — this time by train — to the Federal capital, where on arrival at the station he was greeted by Monsieur Max Petitpierre, Swiss Foreign Minister. The latter was accompanied by Federal Chancellor Oser, Colonel Bracher, and M. Dominicé, chef du protocol.

The party then drove in open carriages to the Palais Fédéral, where Dr. Markus Feldmann, President of the Swiss Confederation, and members of the Federal Council in corpore received the Austrian Chancellor and his suite.

The President of the Swiss Confederation extended to him, in the name of the Federal Council and the Swiss population cordial greetings, to which Dr. Raab replied. In the evening a large Banquet was held, which was attended by all the members of the Government, members of the diplomatic corps, federal and cantonal authorities, and high ranking officers. During the dinner speeches were given by the President of the Swiss Confederation and the Austrian Chancellor.

On Friday, the distinguished guest paid a visit to the cathedral in Fribourg, where he attended an organ recital and afterwards inspected military air-fields at Forel and Payerne. In the evening, Dr. Raab offered a Banquet to members of the Federal Council at the Bellevue Palace Hotel, followed by a reception at which six hundred persons attended.

On the last day of the official visit (Saturday), the Chancellor gave a press conference, after which he left for Altdorf on a week's private visit.

Work is nearing completion in Basle on the "first automobile silo" in Europe as an experiment to help to solve the city's chronic shortage of car parking space. The "silo," costing about £1½ million, is being built by private enterprise.

The building, when completed, will be an eight-storey one and will have garage space for 400 vehicles. A motorist will drive his car into a vast ground-floor reception hall and leave it there.

Within minutes an attendant, seated in front of a diagram and an automatic control panel, can park the car without manhandling it, to any section of the eight floors. The owner can get delivery of his car with the same ease and speed.

Other Swiss cities, where too many cars are competing for shrinking parking space, are watching the Basle experiment with interest. They may follow the "silo" plan.

The four-hundredth anniversary of the arrival of John Knox in Geneva in 1556 was marked in that town by special services.

The celebrations, in which the National Protestant Church of Geneva joined with the Church of Scotland, reached their climax in a commemorative service in the Cathedral of St. Pierre.

The programme of celebrations planned for the anniversary of the arrival of the great Scottish reformer in Geneva included a lecture on John Knox, by Professor G. B. Henderson, dean of the Divinity College at the University of Aberdeen. The Scottish Congregation in Geneva dates from the sixteenth century, when Knox came to the Swiss City to minister to the English-speaking religious refugees.
