The Ambassador of the Netherlands, Monsieur M. M. L. Savelberg, and Monsieur Bakar N'Diaye, Ambassador of Malaya, have presented their credentials to Monsieur P. Chaudet, President of the Swiss Confederation, and Monsieur F. T. Wahlen, Foreign Minister, at the Palais Fédéral in Berne.

The agreement between the Swiss National Bank and the commercial banks on credit restrictions, which is more than a gentlemen's agreement in the sense that it contains sanctions in case of nonfulfilment, has now been published. The agreement covers all banks with a balance-sheet of more than 10m. Swiss francs and relates to the following items: domestic debtors, current-account advances, loans to government bodies and institutions, domestic bills and mortgage investments.

Credits to borrowers who are not domiciled in Switzerland are outside the agreement. The increase in credits must in the period from April to December 1962 not exceed 65 per cent of the total increase in 1961 for debtors, advances to public bodies, and bills. As concerns mortgages the upper limit is 85 per cent of the increase registered in 1961. This means that normal credits to domestic borrowers should increase by not more than 86 per cent of last year's total increase, while for mortgages the limit is 103 per cent.

The limitations may seem relatively small. But it is to be remembered that many banks in the recent past have given large credit promises which they will have to fulfil in the near future. The rates of increase for 1963 are to be fixed before the end of 1962. The banks are asked to use restraint in making fresh promises of credit. Priority should be given to credits for subsidized house building and other new speculative building projects, and to credits for the agricultural sector and import credits.

Excess credits in any one item must be offset by a correspondingly smaller increase in the following period. If limits have been exceeded at the end of 1962 the banks concerned have to deposit with the central bank a sum which is equal to the excess credits.

The agreement, which came into force on April 1st, is valid to the end of 1962. If conditions should permit it the agreement will be cancelled earlier.

Cantonal

Mr. Otto Schnyder, a Lucerne composer, aged 76, who lost his way during an excursion on the 6,995-foot Pilatus, was found frozen to death.

Mr. Schnyder, who had been for more than twenty years a music teacher in the cantonal schools of Lucerne, was also a pianist and violinist. His chief interest was choral singing, and he did much to develop an interest in popular vocal music.

He collected old folk songs, of which he made transcriptions and for which he often composed tunes. His work in that field was particularly important as he helped to reconstitute a number of ancient songs which might otherwise have been lost. [A.T.S.]

Two masked men attempted robbery at the premises of the "Missione Cattolica Italiana" at the Feldstrasse in Zurich. On entering the office quarters, they threatened the cashier with a revolver, demanding the key of the safe. The cashier explained that he was not in possession of the key, whereupon the men left. The cashier took up the pursuit of the thugs, and, with the help of some passers-by, was able to detain them until the police arrived.

GREAT ST. BERNARD TUNNEL

On the 5th of this month engineers constructing the Great St. Bernard tunnel blasted the last barrier of rock separating the Italian and Swiss sections.

The last blast was fired in the presence of the directors, the workers, press and television. When the smoke and dust cleared, the workers on either side of the gallery shook hands and were congratulated by the president of the board.

Representatives of the Swiss and Italian automobile clubs and the Swiss and Italian touring clubs who were present offered a dinner to all the workers.

Two workers lost their lives during the construction of the tunnel — through an unexpected explosion.

The tunnel, which will be open to traffic in the autumn, provides a motor road between western Switzerland and northern Italy which will remain open throughout the year. At present the only routes across the Alps in the region are the Great St. Bernard and Simplon passes, which can be used only for about five months a year.

The Great St. Bernard highway will connect with the German Autobahn and the Italian autostrada systems.

More than 85,000 cars crossed the pass during the months when it was open last year, and during the winter 35,000 vehicles were taken by train through the Simplon tunnel.

The Great St. Bernard tunnel is a private venture; the capital was put up by the Fiat company and the Italian provinces of Turin and Aosta, and on the Swiss side by the canton of Valais and the town of Lausanne. The total cost of boring the gallery, which began in 1959, and building the road approaches is likely to reach £7,500,000.

The tunnel starts at about 6,200 feet at Cantine de Proz on the Swiss side, 25 miles from Martigny, and it emerges near St. Rhémy at about the same height on the Italian side, 14 miles from Aosta. The tunnel is 6,430 yards long and it shortens by six miles the distance between Martigny and Aosta. It is 14 feet high and 23 feet wide, with a double track and a 3-foot footway on each side. Ventilation is by two vertical chimneys, one 600 feet high, the other 1,100 feet.

At each end of the tunnel the road is protected against snow for nearly six miles by means of a concrete roof and concrete sides. Snowploughs will keep the road permanently open.
